

General Coordinator Nomad RSI in Cambodia

The office is based at Sen Monorom, the main town of Monduliri Province. 14 Cambodian people (Khmer and Phnong) and 3 expatriates (general coordinator/technical advisor for the medicinal plant project/ Research advisor) are currently working for Nomad Cambodia.

Presentation of Nomad RSI:

Nomad RSI is working in the domain of international health, encouraging therapeutic diversity and the protection of the environment. Health problems are approached in their multiple biological, social, environmental and economic dimensions. The organisation supports a range of therapeutic forms, each of which brings a different response and a different remedy for people who are, or who feel themselves to be, suffering. From this realisation, the idea of a reasoned medical pluralism is born, in which medical systems of many kinds, including biomedicine, can independently find their place.

Project in Cambodia:

Nomad RSI has been working in the province of Monduliri, in the northeast of Cambodia, since 1997. The organisation has progressively developed its understanding of local health knowledge and practices, the prevailing healthcare situation of the province and, more generally, of Bunong society (the Bunong are the most numerous ethnic minority in Monduliri). Nomad RSI is today a major reference institution in this isolated region.

Terms and contact duration:

Duration: One year with possible extension

Salary: $1500/ month + insurance + return flight tickets to native country

Main tasks of the position include:

1. Programme management/capacity building
 - Management of the local team
 - Design, planning and supervision of the activities in close collaboration with the project manager and the team
 - Monitoring of the activities in close collaboration with the project manager
 - Ensuring timely and complete reporting to donors on project activities

- Evaluation and closing of the Global Fund against malaria round 6
2. Fundraising and programme development
 - Conception and design of new projects, proposal writing etc
 - Fundraising for the continuation of the project and for the new projects
 - Meetings with potential donors
 3. Overall Financial Responsibility
 - Establishment of provisional budgets
 - Financial reporting (donors and board of directors)
 - Supervision of accountancy
 4. Communications
 - Internal communication including a timely submitted monthly report
 - External communication (donors, NGO and government partners, media)
 - Representing Nomad RSI at the provincial, national and international levels

Profile of candidate:

Education: Masters degree in relevant subjects

Experience: Proven record of programme/ financial management and fundraising; Assessment and evaluation experience an advantage

Language: Excellent spoken and written English, Khmer an advantage

Qualities: Willingness to live in a remote and fast changing area with limitations in infrastructure, commitment to capacity building of local staff, excellent communication and team management skills

Application: Complete CV with cover letter in English and full details of two referees should be sent as soon as possible.

Interviews: To be held in Paris, London and/or in Phnom Penh

Contact: Mathieu Gonord, Programme
Director: mathieu.gonord@nomadrsi.org